M.S.V.S. To Hold Initial Meeting 5 p.m. In Union Ballroom

Annual Elections Scheduled

The McGill Students' Veterans' Society have announced that their first general meeting will be held on today at 5 p.m. in the Union Ballroom. Discussion will rest mainly upon the past and future work of the society, and upon the coming election of officers. This meeting is open to all veterans, and, being the initial one of the 1946-47 session, and will be directed mainly toward informing all incoming ex-servicemen of the aims and functions of the society. A review of previous work will also be featured.

The president of the M.S.V.S., Len Starkey, in submitting this review, will pay special attention to the society's past efforts in dealing with the many problems affecting veteran students today. Particular stress is to be laid upon the organization's recent venture, which was to distribute questionnaires to the veterans of all faculties in order to obtain sufficient information to formulate a future course of action. In addition, it will be noted that briefs have been submitted through proper channels to government authorities; also it must be noted that the M.S.V.S. inaugurated the National Conference of Student Veterans last December.

The all-important question of housing will be given prominence in a report tendered by the Housing Director, John Switzman, followed by a statement on membership and finances. Among the items of immediate importance will be the election of a new body of officers to form a new executive, which will be charged with implementing the policy of the M.S.V.S. during the 1946-47 session.

At the present time, the society is concerned with the task of classifying and arranging the information garnered from the circulation of the veterans' questionaire last week. This poll dealt largely with three aspects of major importance —housing, employment and finances. The finished brief tabulated on this evidence will determine the future policy of the M.S.V.S.

Hillel to Inaugurate Jewish Courses Nov.

A series of courses in Jewish learning will be inaugurated early in November, sponsored by the Hillel Foundation of McGill University.

The courses to be offered are Hebrew and Yiddish languages, Survey of the Jewish History, Religion, and Group Relationship. Registration will be from Oct. 30th to Nov. 1st at the Hillel House, 3460 Stanley St.

It was stated that the aim of the lectures is to provide the University student with an opportunity to learn more about the Jewish religious and Cultural heritage, presented on a University level, and designed to achieve intellectual maturity in the field of Jewish knowledge.

Intercollegiate Debating Team To Be Chosen

The McGill Debating Union enters into its year's program in real acarnest tomorrow when eliminations will be held to provide debaters for the various Intercollegiate debates to be held between now and Christmas.

These eliminations are scheduled for the Union Music Room between 3 p.m. and 6 p.m. tomorrow. Speakers may come at any time between these hours and members of both sexes are permitted to participate. The contestants who show the most will represent McGill in the Montreal Debating League, and against Osgood Hall and the University of Vermont.

The topic of the debate will be announced in tomorrow's Daily. Students may speak on either side of the topic and their speeches are to be between three and five minutes in length. The judges for these eliminations will be the Debating Union Executive. Those desiring to take part, whether they can be present Wednesday or not, are requested by the Debating Union Executive to leave their names at the Union Tuck Shop.

The first McGill Debate of the year will be against Harvard. This will be a home-and-home debate and full details of this contest will be announced in the next few days. Meanwhile the Interfaculty Debating League is continuing its weekly schedule with a debate tomorrow. This will see Law and Commerce debating on the topic 'Resolved that the action of the squatters in seizing housing facilities is justifiable.' The lawyers will

R.V.C. Debaters Hold 1st Meeting, Elections

The opening meeting of the Women's Debating Union was held on Thursday. Guest speaker was Mr. John Dando who gave an address on the principles of good debating, emphasizing the need for more extempore speaking.

The following officers were elected: President, Ann Ryan; Vice-President, Pamela Morley; Sec.-Treas., Joy Ballon. A publicity director and a representative to the McGill Debating Union will be appointed later by the executive.

Following the elections business for the year was discussed, and a budget approved which will be submitted to the Women's Union.

The prospect of classes in public speaking and parliamentary procedure were discussed. The Union also plans to send representatives to debate with Wellesley and Middlebury Colleges, women's universities in New England.

Meetings will be held every month at times to be announced in The Daily.

Sale of Tickets Of Queens Tilt Begins Today

Train and game tickets for the McGill-Queens football match on Saturday will be on sale at the Union Tuckshop on Tuesday and Wednesday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. The return train tickets are selling at $5.00, tax included. Tickets for the football game range in price through $1.00, $1.25 and $2.00. These tickets are now on sale at Dawson in the canteen.

A special train for McGill supporters will leave for Kingston from Central Station, Montreal at 8.45 a.m. on Saturday morning, arriving there in ample time for any pre-game arrangements. The return train will leave Kingston at 11.30 p.m., and will arrive in Montreal between 3 a.m. and 3.30 a.m. on Sunday morning. The necessity for this late hour of arrival will be readily understood, as the present pressure on railway travel makes special train arrangements very difficult.

The plans for this special train have been ably handled by the Red and White Society. It was necessary to guarantee the C.N.R. a minimum of 136 fares, and while no doubts are entertained on this score, the Society have emphasized the need of a large turnout, as this would show favorably in future dealings with the railways.

Vellott Will Address Engineering Institute

Under the chairmanship of W. A. Newman, the Montreal Branch of The Engineering Institute of Canada will hold a meeting on Thursday, October 31, at 8.15 p.m., at 2050 Mansfield Street. John I. Yellott will read a paper dealing with the development of the coal burning gas turbine for locomotive use.

Mr. Yellott, a native of Maryland, graduated with the degree of Master of Mechanical Engineering in 1933 from Johns Hopkins University. Between 1940 and 1945 Mr. Yellott directed the war training program at the Illinois Institute of Technology. At present he is Chairman of the Power Test Code Committee on Gas Turbine Power Plants of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Lantern slides will be shown to illustrate Mr. Yellott's address.

WOMEN'S UNION

Coed Organization Sponsors Clubs For Women

The first semi-annual general meeting of the Women's Union for all members wil llake place at 4 p.m. today in the common room of Royal Victoria College, following a tea sponsored by the Union and under the supervision of Anne MacDermot.

The actual meeting is scheduled to get under way at 5 p.m. chaired by Heddie Brown, president of the Women's Union. Annual reports of the 13 clubs and societies sponsored by this organization, outlining the year's plans and aims of the individual clubs will be presented, so that students may be acquainted with their purposes before joining. Last year's financial report will also be given at this time.

Since all women undergraduates automatically become members of the Women's Union upon payment of the universal fee, the following paragraphs are intended to acquaint coeds with the general background, purposes, and functions of the Women's Union.

Back in 1929 the Women's organization on the campus was called the McGill Women Students' Society, and controlled only six clubs. The executive of this group contacted the Students' Council to reorganize the student government so that women might be represented on the council, but this motion was neither appreciated nor carried out. However, eventually it was decided to consider R.V.C. as a voting section, in this way assuring women at least one representative on the Students' Executive Council. This representative is the president of the Women's Union.

The object of the Women's Union is to provide for the social, cultural, and recreational needs of its members through a varied program, and to integrate the various women's activities on the campus. The Executive Council of the

Newspapers Subject Of Varsity Debate

Toronto, Oct. 27.—(CUP)—By a vote of 125 to 53 Varsity students decided at a session of the University College Debating Parliament Friday that Campus merits the title of "a journal of student opinion." In doing so they defeated the motion proposed that "this house disapproves of Campus as a journal of student opinion."

Campus is a weekly paper published at Varsity as a rival to "The Varsity" official CUP newspaper at the University of Toronto. Supporters of the Campus claimed that the Varsity is a billboard of future and past events and does not represent student opinion. Supporters of The Varsity stated that The Campus is biased and that the majority of Toronto students do not feel that way.

R & W Society Opens Branch At Dawson

Wednesday of this week is the day set for the registration of students at Dawson College in their local branch of the Red and White Society.

The registration had originally been announced for Friday, October 18th, but was postponed to enable more suitable organizations of the work.

Last week 525 students signed up with the organization on the Montreal Campus, and it is hoped that the Dawson students will make the most of their opportunity to help themselves to a fuller social life.

It is stressed by the executive that the Dawson branch of the Red and White Society will be an independent organization with its own executive and duties, and will undertake activities of particular interest to Dawson students.

The society was organized last year by the Students' Executive Council to promote campus spirit and sponsor functions to this end. Among its many activities this year the society has sponsored the tea dances following the football games; the arrangements for the train and game tickets to Toronto, and this week-end's trip to Queens; as well as several dances and Athletics Festivals last year.

Those wishing to join the society are asked to indicate on the registration cards their interest and previous experience in publicity, canvassing, organization, decorating, poster painting, and intermission entertainment.

The Registration Booth will be set up near the mess hall, and will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. All those interested are urged to sign up.

CJAD Will Air 'McGill Speaks,' McGill's Own Radio Show

It was announced last night by the McGill Publicity Office that a new radio program devoted entirely to the activities of McGill University will take to the air waves. Through the co-operation of Mr. Arthur Dupont of radio station CJAD, fifteen minutes radio time over that station have been received every Saturday night from 9.30 to 9.45, commencing on Saturday, November 2nd.

This program will be entitled "McGILL SPEAKS" and will feature students of the university. It is hoped that by this means information about student activities will be learnt by the public, and at the same time the students will have an opportunity to display their talents for the entertainment of the listening audience.

The programs will include music, highlights in the university world of sport, interviews of prominent people on the campus and entertainment of various sorts to be presented by the students. It is expected that with the variety of talent and interest on the McGill campus, the show will be amazingly varied.

The program itself will be handled through the Publicity Department of the Athletics Office, but will not be entirely devoted to athletics. The first broadcast will feature an interview with an outstanding campus personality; a few of the more interesting sidelights at McGill presented by Bob Everson—and a very well rounded quartet which will sing one or two of the old college songs.

Over 52% Exercise Franchise

The Dawson Students' Executive Council for the year 1946-47 emerged last night out of the welter of ballots returned in a general election in which over 52 per cent. of the student body participated.

R. C. Gudgeon, the only member of last year's council re-elected, was successful in a close race for the office of President of the Dawson Student Society. Irvine Pfeffer was elected President of the Arts and Science Undergraduate Society. Hal Gordon was the victor in the contest for President of the Engineering Undergraduate Society. Andre Bedard had previously been elected President of the Commerce Undergraduate Society by acclamation.

Ed. B. Albury was elected Chairman of the Canteen Committee. J. K. Woodyatt won the race for Chairman of the Mess Committee. Jerry Diamond and Dale King had been previously elected by acclamation to the posts of Chairman of the House Committee and Social Committee respectively.

Though not a position on the Students' Executive Council, the post of Representative to the Athletic Board was keenly contested. Jeff Ganten was elected.

BREAKDOWN OF VOTING

Following is a list of the voting breakdown, most of the figures being official while some may vary by a unit or two on recheck:

For President Dawson Students Society

Prof. Keirsted Speaks on Labour Peace

Prof. B. S. Keirsted, speaking under the auspices of the National Council of Jewish Juniors last night, addressed an audience of about sixty on the problem of labour-management relations in Canada. Prof. Kiersted termed the common practise of speaking of this subject as the "labour problem" misleading, since it it implied that labour alone is responsible for the difficulties which have plagued industrial relations since the war. He went on to blame newspapers for stressing dramatic conflict in strikes rather than less sensational but more important negotiations. By playing up class conflict, said the speaker, our press unwittingly furthers the cause of Marxist communists.

Outlining the place of labour unions in Canadian industry, Professor Keirsted explained that there are three main factors contributing to instability on the union-management front. First there is the fact that the union movement in Canada is split into three separate organizations: Catholic syndicates, A. F. of L. craft unions, and C.C.L. industrial unions. This results in jurisdictional disputes, which are unknown in a country such as Britain having a more centralized labour movement. The second cause of trouble in Canada is the influence of the American labour movement with its tradition of violence.

FUN FEATURED ON HALLOWEEN

Games and Dancing Highlight Program At Cosmo Party

By H. R. C. V. PETERS

Hallowe'en, the night of nights for spooks, gaiety and horrid apparitions will be truly celebrated in style this year at the seventh annual Cosmopolitan Club Hallowe'en Party.

Featuring the most exotic foods of the season, apple bobbing, and never to be forgotten kisses, and being masterfully cooled and lubricated with ample quantities of liquid refreshment, this event promises to be much more than a mere dance.

A special attraction of the evening will be the athletic program, featuring not only the good old seasonal standbys such as apple bobbing, but also a number of new games unparallelled for rowdiness. One event in particular, "Pennies from Heaven", will be enjoying its premiere on the McGill campus.

The program, which is being offered on a stag or drag basis, will be rounded out with dancing to the selected music of the world's best orchestras, and the admission to all this, food included, is being held down to a mere 50c per person, with registered members of the Club admitted free.

Francis Xavier Alumni To Meet Friday Night

A business meeting will be held for all interested alumni of Saint Francis Xavier University on November 1, it was recently announced. The alumni are to convene in the Green Room of the Ritz Carlton Hotel at 8 p.m.

The purpose of the meeting is as follows: to receive reports arising out of the minutes of the meeting of April 23, to elect officers of the local association for a period to be decided; and to discuss plans for the annual meeting of the Montreal Alumni on December 3.

It was stated that all members are urged to attend in order to continue the development of a worthwhile alumni.

Politicians Ball Friday Night

This Friday night at 8.10 p.m. in the Union Ballroom the McGill Liberal Club will sponsor their first social event of the year, the Politicians Ball.

As was previously announced, the Westernaires were to supply the music. However, last week the Students' Executive Council received a letter from the Musicians Union, requesting that the Student's Council recognize the Union as the bargaining agent to be hired for McGill dances. The Union especially requested that the Westernaires' Orchestra would not be hired until it stopped its policy of jeopardizing the position of full time musicians by cutting their rates. It also stated that Union bands, which comprise almost all possible bands, might be forced to boycott McGill functions, if the use of a non-union band continues here. The Union's case was further strengthened by the presence of many students on the campus who play in Montreal bands and who are Union members.

The Ball will be held anyway, so come along and bring your friends. Everyone is welcome. Tickets are on sale in the Union at the nominal fee of one dollar a couple.

Outstanding Courses

The return of the service man to civilan life and the campus is marked by a reconversion of universities across the nation.

New lectures halls are being built, new departments are being set up and many of those already in existence are being augmented. Staffs have been enlarged in an attempt to meet the wave of new students and the whole academic picture shows greater breadth and greater depth.

The accent seems to be on departments related to economics, industrial and world affairs. Universities seem to be appreciating the demand for courses which will help broaden the outlook of students beyond the fields of classics, ancient history and mathematics.

VARSITY: A number of new courses have been instituted here within the last few years. This year, Professor V. W. Bladen, former head of the department of economics has organized the Institute of Industrial Relations. This course supplements economics courses and furnishes material for post graduate work. A small number of students are enrolled in the Institute of Child Study which was established in 1943 and makes a study of children from private homes brought to the Institute each day to be cared for. In addition Varsity has organized a ten-month courses for veterans in Business and a school of Chinese students.

UBC: Here also the recent trend of world events has had its influence. Dr. James Sobell, a Wing Commander in the Air Force for seven years and senior air officer in the Allied Commission in Austria as well as head of the censorship department there, has organized a Department of Slavonic studies with one year of Russian as a prerequisite. This course is open only to senior students with over 65 per cent. in the language and the course in Russian is not counted as a degree credit unless followed by a second year's study. The study of the Slavonic peoples includes an introduction to the languages as well as a survey of history and literature.

A course in literary criticism and advanced composition is open to a limited number of senior students, with emphasis on short-story writing and reviews on literature and a new school of Music has just been inaugurated.

WESTERN: This university, although well-known for its football team, has also had a good deal of recent publicity concerning its School of Journalism instituted last year. It is the only school of journalism in Canada and unlike Columbia, perhaps the best known school of this sort, is an undergraduate school. Upon the completion of quarters, the university is planning to institute a school of Physical Education.

ST. FRANCIS XAVIER: This university is well-known as a pioneer in the field of consumer co-operatives in adult education

IMPORTANT ELECTIONS

This afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Union Ballroom veterans at McGill will hear a full report on the activities of the Student Veterans' Society during the last year. When the meeting ends and the elections are over, an executive will again be entrusted to represent veterans on the campus. To make this executive as representative and as vigorous a body as possible, it is essential that veterans make it a point to get to the meeting. Listen to the reports and discussion. Exercise your franchise!

R.A.F. GETS CANADIANS

Seven hundred strong, ex-RCAF aircrew members will be on their way overseas again soon. A RAF recruiting drive in Canada (where else could they get such men) is saving DVA and the Unemployment Insurance Bureau dollars and dollars. Whether it is the good pay or the yen for the smell of clean air, Canadians are going back. A flood of applications followed a recent announcement that Canada has concluded an agreement under which the RAF would recruit trained Canadian air crew from former members of the RCAF for services anywhere in the world.

CO-OP HOUSING

Housing Director Switzman of the Vet Society has a special report on the cooperative project for those interested in low cost housing. Letters have been received from housing authorities in Ottawa and Montreal. The meeting is today, 1 o'clock in the West End of the Union Ballroom.

Latest Squatters Interviewed While Occupying Betting Den

By MARY HOWELL

The sequel to the squatter's movement on McGill College Ave occurred this afternoon when 4509 St. Denis St., an actively operating gambling establishment was occupied by three families while some of the operators were still present.

When we arrived at the two storey building, the lower floor of which is occupied by a dry cleaners store, a body of 25 members of the seamen's union had just arrived. The street outside was crowded with curious onlookers and former members of the club.

We were admitted by two of the seamen who peered down the narrow stairs at us and finally allowed us to get in when we mentioned that we were from the Daily. Upstairs in the six room apartment the scene was a little different from that which we had witnessed on McGill College, because the living room and kitchen were occupied by the seamen who were busy helping the Squatters unpack and get settled. In the front bedroom we found the two month old baby "the youngest squatter in the world" to quote his mother, quite unaware of the activity around it.

In the back room were colourful signs, "Ce club est ouvert a 7 p.m. tous les soirs," "Les jetons sont payables comptont nous faisons credit aux personnes de 80 ans et plus accompagnes de leurs parents." In a commercial cooler in the kitchen the soft drinks left by the previous tenants had been moved over to make room for the babies' bottles and the milk, butter and eggs of the three families. In another room a woman of 69 was making up a bed for two children who looked to be about 2 and 3. The seamen were carrying a gambling table out of another room and moving in some family belongings. In the front room over the mantle was a crudely constructed filing cabinet where the membership cards of the patrons were kept. In the kitchen a reporter from one of Montreal's dailies was calling up members one by one, a pile of cards in front of him. Gas and electricity were still connected and hot water was available.

We spoke to seaman J. Peters, who was on guard at the door. One of the other men had told us

The Veterans Society

This afternoon the first general meeting of one of the most active organizations on this campus will be held. Since its inception some two years ago, during the winter of 1944, the McGill Student Veterans' Society has devoted the main part of its work to helping veterans iron out the difficulties which are bound to arise in the abnormal circumstances under which they are attending the university. Along with this the Society has taken the view that veterans must not segregate themselves from others on the campus. On the contrary, it is maintained that veterans, because of their past experience and greater maturity can make a special contribution to student activity in general. It is for this reason that co-operation with student organizations, University authorities and all other serious-minded people has been the watchword of the past.

Veterans realize that all sections of the community have their interests at heart. They also understand that the government has given them an unequalled opportunity to further their academic standing—an opportunity of which many would otherwise be deprived. However, within this situation, there are some difficulties—for example, the questions of adequate housing, employment facilities and maintenance grants—which must be dealt with. It is very logical, therefore that the veterans on this campus should have an independent organization which will allow them to voice their own views on matters such as these, and through which they may take the necessary action to help themselves. This is an example of democracy at work—the democracy for which we fought for six long years—and is an example which could well be emulated by the student body as a whole.

Last year, at the meeting corresponding to today's, several resolutions were passed with regard to housing and an increase in grants. It was with these resolutions in mind that the executive planned their activities for the session and exerted every effort toward the satisfaction of the problems of the Society. Stemming from these efforts there resulted the questionnaire on the cost of living, the work of the Housing Committee, and finally, the National Conference of Student Veterans was held at which problems facing students veterans at all Canadian Universities were discussed.

The response to the recent questionnaire indicates that the feeling toward these problems is much the same as it was a year ago. Today's meeting will discuss the policy of the Society for the coming year, and will then elect an executive to further develop it and carry it into action. From this point of view then, this will be one of the most important meetings of the year for student veterans. All those who feel that the Society should continue the work it has begun have a duty to turn out to participate in the discussion and to elect the officers who will represent them this year. The Veterans' Society is one which deals with the serious problems of the well-being of its members and the student body as a whole, and therefore must receive the wholehearted support of the veterans on the campus if it is to carry on its work in the best interests of all its members.

Movies

Due to a shortage of space on Page 4, two movie reviews were not printed last night. We reprint tmeh here:

AT LOEW'S

Superb acting with a seemingly authentic if somewhat unique background is featured in the film "Anna and the King of Siam" currently being shown at the Loew's theatre. Excellently portraying the King, Rex Harrison shows that in crossing the Atlantic he has lost none of his magnificent acting ability.

Irene Dunne acomplishes the ideal in offsetting Mr. Harrison, while portraying only as she can, the widowed English womna who makes her home in what the King maintains is "not a barbaric land". However, circumstances which develop as the celluloid unrolls, of course, prove him to have been only civilized because of the work of the remarkable self-exiled woman.

Lee J. Cobb in the role of the Prime Minister helps vastly in developing most of the situations with a performance that must be labelled for more than adequate. In Mr. Cobb Hollywood has come up with a thespian who will remind theatre goers of the late Laird Cregar. Not only are his features reminiscent of this star but his actions, which as yet have not shown his versatility in different roles bear a marked resemblance to the huge "lodger."

The film itself might have been made in England, for the unusually excellen performances that are attributed to trans-oceanic films have been preserved in the Hollywood interpretation of the best seller. In addition, the action which often seems to be lacking in entirety or polish in English films has been given an important if somewhat secondary, role. Briefly then this film combined the best attributes of both centres of movie making. —A.C.

AT THE PRINCESS

"Jannie Gets Married," now playing at the Princess Theatre, features the late and well beloved Robert Benchley. Also featured are Joan Leslie and Robert Hutton, a charming pair, who provide high comedy and a lot of laughter.

Beneath the surface of this gay comedy, and between the periods when everyone talks at once, there can be detected an attempt to solve some of the difficulties of the returning serviceman.

Joan Leslie playes a 19-year-old featherbrained wife. Her husband, Bob Hutton, finds that her behavior is a little undignified. But everything turns out all right in the end — and hand in hand they walked down the tree-lined lane — hand-in-hand — figuratively, of course.

Conservative Comment

by Peel and St. Catherine

Mots Demi-Cuits:

There have recently appeared in the columns of The Daily a series of literary criticisms by certain gentlemen of foreign name. Some of the comment made by these individuals has been completely unintelligible to us, but we shall forbear criticising them on that account: it may be that the authors, who obviously think in classical Latin, have been unable to transmit the subtle nuances of their thought into so rude a tongue as modern English. For so human a failing let no one be condemned..

But why do these celebrated critics place so much stress on the modernist schools of poetry? Surely, it is a vast waste, both of time and spase, to monopolize half a column in explaining what everyone already understands. And what could be more crystal-clear than the cold logic of Auden and MacNeice, or more obvious than Mr. Eliot's prosaic pessimism? As for the Bombo Song — where is the student of English 2 who cannot analyse every onomatopoeic syllable of this simple classic?

The modern critic, rather than waste his time in interpreting poetry which needs no interpretation, might well consider some of those lyrics that have come down to us, without footnotes, from the golden age of social literature. As a result of inexpert criticism, such masterpieces have in many cases been relegated to the pages of children's books, and are in extreme danger of being lost entirely to all but the most serious and persistent of students.

We have in mind particularly a mouton-dyad, created by a celebrated poetess, who has become popular in Anglo-Saxon countries under the pseudonym of Mother Goose. The separate parts of the dyad are entitled "Mary Had a Little Lamb" and "Baa Baa Black heep". It is not our intention to quote the poems in full, for although they have been consistently misinterpreted, the lines are nevertheless familiar to even the most elementary of students. Nor do we propose to discuss the artistic beauty of the lyrics — it is generally conceded that even the Swan of Avon failed to surpass Madam Goose, either in simile or stanza, and we refuse to waste valuable space in unnecessary reiteration of the countless testimonies to that effect.

Our task is rather to examine the social precepts laid down in the two poems; for, as Mr. Eliot himself remarks in "The Criticism of Poetry": "Poetry is also a social document, and may be made use of by the historian, the moralist, the social philosopher or the psychoanalyst". With this fact clear in our minds, then, let us pursue the contribution of poetess Goose to the social sciences.

The first half of our mouton-dyad — "Mary Had a Little Lamb" — deals with mutton in the juvenile stage, and concerns itself with the psychological need for security in the development of a mature personality. The introduction of Mary indicates Mrs. Goose's awareness of the important role that woman must play in a well integrated society. We clearly perceive the effect that Mary has on the young lamb, for — as the poetess distils the thought —

"Everywhere that Mary went,
The Lamb was sure to go."

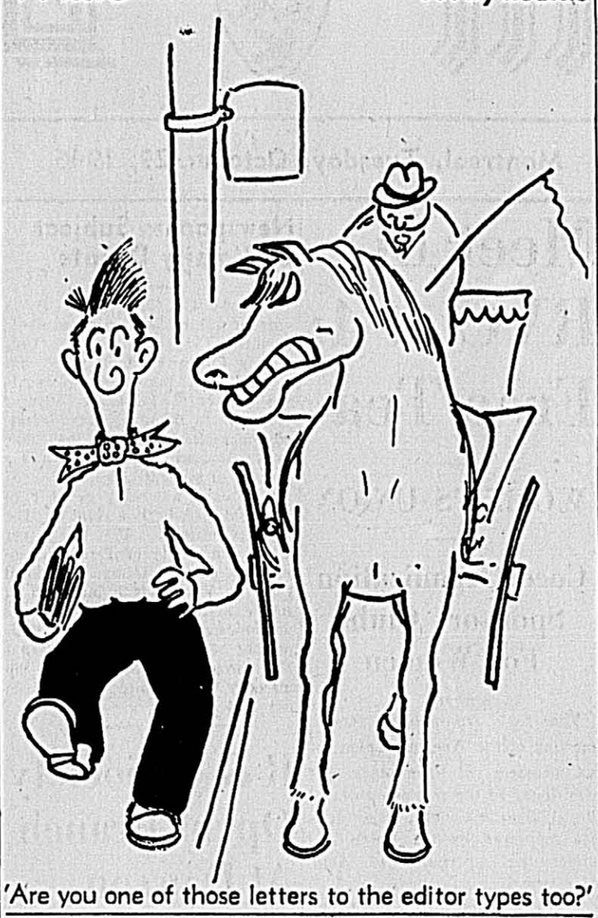

Indeed, this introduction is an inspiration to all parents, expressing as it does, in unparallelled imagery, the interaction of parental and filial love.

Later in the poem, however, a discordant note is introduced — the lamb, still in its formative years, finds itself discriminated against because it is different: on following its young mistress to her lectures one morning, it is refused admission by the teacher. It seems that for the lamb to become educated is "against the rule".

In considering this point, it is well to remember that Mrs. Goose was writing of contemporary life as she saw it, and that there is no necessary analogy between conditions then and now. In those days racial and religious intolerance was rife, and it may be presumed that minorities actually were refused admission to certain educational institutes. Fortunately, in this case the lamb was quite young,

LETTER FORUM

The Editor, McGill Daily
Dear Sir:

Repeated notices in the Daily stated that single student tickets for the Menuhin concert could be obtained only at time of their being put on sale Mon., the 28th.

With lectures over at 11 a.m. that Monday, I 100 yd. dashed over to the Gym Ticket Office and collapsed in front of the "Sold Out" sign.

I humbly suggest:

(1) That all lectures be cancelled Monday morning so that all ticket seekers can line up at a SEC supervised "mark" and race fairly for the tickets;

(2) That if the ticket supply is as extremely scarce as it must have been, due warning should be inserted in the notices above mentioned so that precautions in accordance can be taken;

(3) That the Daily should give adequate publicity to any offers of resale of such tickets, even at slightly higher prices, as such information would be probably of great interest in many quarters.

At all events some comment by the appropriate authorities would be highly appreciated.

Sincerely,
Joseph R. Hoffman,
(Law II).

Dear Sir:

As a poor unfortunate who has lectures till 6 p.m. every day except Wednesday when I finish at the early hour of 5 p.m., I would like to lodge a protest against all meetings and interfaculty competitions that start at 5 p.m. or earlier. I am sure there are a host of other students in the same position as I.

In the past it was quite convenient for students to come to meetings and games at 5 p.m. as there were few lectures in the afternoon. However, this year, I am far from being alone when I walk out of the Arts Bldg. at 6 p.m.

If we are urged to support our faculties by turning out to play for our teams, we should also be able to come out for the contests. Similarly, I think the various clubs on the campus would get more support if their meetings were held at hours free from lectures.

Since 5 p.m. lectures are a necessity, 5 p.m. meetings and games are unco-operative and should be eliminated.

Yours till 6 p.m.,
S. H. RUBIN,
B. Com. III.

Dear Sir:

It has been brought to the attention of the C.C.F. Club executive that the Liberal Club is holding a dance this coming Friday under the title of the Politician's Ball. We feel that in view of the general title used the Liberal Club should make it perfectly clear that it is alone responsible for the affair and for any of the consequences that may result to the campus as a whole as the result of hiring a non-union orchestra.

The consequences may be more important than might appear on the surface. For example we understand that the union concerned has already threatened to prevent all union bands from playing at any McGill event in the future should the proposed affair be carried through. Further we feel that the hiring of a non-union orchestra at less than union rates is very unfair to the many student-musicians on the campus. These students are able to earn in their spare time as members of the union, sufficient to provide themselves with spending money and in many cases a college education.

In any event we of the C.C.F. Club as a club are not even remotely connected with the organization of the dance and in the event of a controversy our sympathies will lie with the union.

Yours Sincerely,
MICHAEL OLIVER,
Vice-pres. C.C.F. Club.

The Editor, McGill Daily.
Dear Editor,

I have just read in the Daily the summary of a talk given by Mr. H. Binder, City Organizer of the L.P.P., on Thursday, October 24.

Mr. Binder talks a lot about British bayonets "controlling the situation" in Europe. Here are a few figures ("Star", October 24) on the allocation of Russian and other troops in Europe, which cannot be very far out.

Russia has twice as many troops in Europe, outside her own frontiers, as France, U.S., and Great Britain put together. Thus Kremlin keeps, approximately, 750,000 men under arms in Germany, 75,000 in Austria, 230,000 in Poland, and 750,000 in Hungary, Rumania, and Bulgaria. The total is 1,805,000 troops on a war footing. Mr. Binder, perhaps, does not realize that the communizing governments of the above mentioned countries may count more on the support from the Russian bayonets than from their own people.

The total for France (140,000), U.S. (365,000), and Great Britain (450,000) is 955,000 troops.

If we are to have a world peace every country must be ready to make some sort of a concession at one time or another. Russia has shown that she is not to be expected to make any such sacrifice but that she is expecting many concessions in her favour. No doubt, the Russian representatives keep in mind the overwhelming strength of their army.

The program will feature the first three of the Twelve Concertos by George Frederic Handel, all of which will be played in the Series, and also Chamber Suite No. 1 by J. S. Bach.

Dean Douglas Clarke will commence rehearsals of the Conservatorium Orchestra on Thursday next, October 31st at 8:15 p.m. in the Conservatorium Hall. He is anxious to give any student who can play an instrument reasonably well and can sight read, and has preferably had a little experience in a serious orchestra, an opportunity to engage in the weekly pleasure of making music with others.

Any student who would like to join the orchestra is asked to phone the Conservatorium, or call in there, and leave his name and address and mention the instrument he is prepared to play. Phone number is MA. 2606.

"Golden Boy" Worth Seeing

When the newly formed Montreal Drama Guild chose as their first production Clifford Odets' "Golden Boy", they set themselves a difficult task. In spite of the many difficulties they must have had they gave an excellent performance.

We were amazed that anyone, let alone a new group in the Montreal drama world, would tackle a play, with so many scene changes, in Victoria Hall, which has very poor stage facilities for such things, and we were even more amazed at the comparative success which this group achieved. True, these changes were all long enough to be quite noticeable and at times boring, but the results justified the delay. The settings by Hans Berends were up to his usual high standards.

"Golden Boy" was one of those rare productions in which everyone was good, down to the last bit player. Some, of course, were better than others and we especially liked Madeleine Sherwood as Lorna Moon, Leo Ciceri as Joe Bonaparte, Charles Lewis as Mr. Bonaparte, Phil Rose as "Siggie" and also Douglas Peterson, Charles Miller, Sol Cohen, and Bruce Raymond.

The first set was rather stiff and awkward. The actors were acting, but by the second act the pace had improved and the characters began to come alive.

The end of the play left us feeling that this new drama group has made a definite contribution to the Montreal theatre. We are looking forward to their next productions.

This play will be presented again tonight, and Wednesday night at Victoria Hall.

We urge every one who has not already seen it, to attend this play if they possibly can. It has its faults but it is more than made up for by its good sets and excellence of acting.

He felt her warm, young hand slide into his. When he looked up she was gone. In his hand was a nickel.

MY HAT IS OFF TO YOU

Today I witnessed a wonderful football game. The team I was rooting for were the underdogs and what prompts me to write this to you is the fact that you didn't care you were the underdogs — you went out to win and how you did try.

You, as might have been expected, lost. But, as I look back I don't seem to care about your defeat. What I will remember for a long time is the will you had to win and how you gave yourselves to that objective.

Red Netmen Defeat Saskatchewan for Dominion Title

Last Doubles Match Decisive in Tourney; Marien, Hodges Star

McGill's smooth-stroking duo of Jimmy Duff and Breen Marien defeated Saskatchewan's Johnny Leicester and Bob Fuller 6-3, 6-8, 6-3, enabling McGill to cop the Canadian University Tennis Title today 4 matches to 3 at the MacTavish Courts. A large crowd of enthusiastic supporters were kept on edge throughout the tournament by the brilliant play of both quintets. Each team had won three matches before the final doubles match was completed.

The visiting boys played inspired tennis throughout. Especially noteworthy was the fine net play of Don Hodges and John Leicester's sure stroking to the opposite corners. Bob Fuller, by using both hands on his forehand and backhand shots drove many sure shots with great speed. For McGill, Breen Marien displaying his smooth, careful type of tennis won half of McGill's matches and was thus a star.

Hodges Bests Duff

In the first match, lanky Don Hodges of Saskatchewan bested blond Jimmy Duff 3-6, 6-2, 6-3 after a very shaky start. Jimmy's great placement shots which sped like bullets gave him the first set, but Hodges warmed up and his net play was spectacular in the closing games. There was more court strategy than long rallies in this set and it was thrilling throughout. Hodges covered much ground but when he was at the net, Jimmy frequently passed him with sizzling drives.

Ine one of the finest and longest matches of the tourney, dark-haired Johnny Leicester proved to be too much for Jack Spencer in taking him 4-6, 6-2, 6-4. The first set see-sawed back and forth with the features being Spencer's placements and backhand while Leicester's tricky shots close in at the net were troublesome to the blond boy. There were many magnificent rallies which drew well-deserved rounds of applause.

Duford Wins

Bob Duford, Ottawa's gift to McGill, showed his racquet-power in whipping his opponent 6-1, 6-2 after losing the first set 9-7 in which Bob Fuller's two-handed drives were striking with great effect. Duford played spectacular tennis and had his opponent at his mercy many times. His chops were something to see and he mixed his shots up well, but he still had to go the limit in beating his fast rival.

Then Breen Marien with his steady playing which has made him a star all season turned on the heat to set back southpaw Bill Ebbels of Saskatchewan 1-6, 7-5, 6-4. Time and time again Breen's well-placed shots told the story but

Judo Classes to Start In Gymnasium Today

This evening at 5.15 the Judo classes will be getting under way. This year as in '43, Roger Hutchins will be head-coach, with Bob Wallace as assistant. If you have an old pair of pants and a strong sweatshirt, bring them. However the first class will be solely introductory with practical illustrations.

Judo is widely practised, but until recent years was considered too dangerous as an intercollegiate sport.

For further information drop into the gym at 5.15 tonight.

Meet the Coach

Coach Doug Grant Returns to Aid McGill Badminton Aspirants

The McGill Dept. of Athletics has announced that Doug. Grant, former World Professional Badminton titleholder, will again coach McGill teams in local and Intercollegiate play and will also give instruction to all students in Badminton. Mr. Grant will be present as instructor on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 8.00 p.m. on, and the first session will take place to-morrow night, October 29th. The courts will, however, be open for play at 7.00 p.m.

It is planned to use the small gym for instructional purposes and to leave the other six courts for general play. Students wishing to avail themselves of this instruction have only to register at Currie Gym on Tuesday or Thursday evening. The presence of Mr. Grant at McGill should afford a good opportunity for beginners to acquire the proper fundamentals and for more experienced players to correct faults which may have developed in their play.

Grant Well Known

The qualifications of Doug. Grant as a player and coach are beyond question and his name is well-known wherever Badminton is played. In the four-year period beginning with 1933 Grant succeeded in compiling one of the most outstanding competitive records ever achieved by any player in this country. In that year, at the age of 20, he went through the Canadian championships held at the Montreal Badminton and Squash Club without losing a single set, trouncing Winnipeg's Charlie Jones 15-4, 15-1, in the shortest finals in history. The following year again saw Grant win the Canadian championship without losing a set, this time defeating Dick Birch of Vancouver—and later Montreal—in the final. In 1934 he also defended his Granite Club Invitation title, won the previous year from Junior Goodwin, by defeating Rod Phelan, a former Dominion champion.

In 1935 Grant did not play in a single tournament, being a victim of double pneumonia. In 1936, however, he resumed his winning ways and became the only player to win three Canadian singles championships when he again defeated the persistent Birch, this time in a final which is recorded as the longest everplayed. The exhausting match went over an hour before Birch, near collapse, saw his rival run out the game 15-6, 11-15, 15-9. Grant also won most of the provincial titles from Manitoba to B.C. in the same year.

TURNS PRO

By 1937 Grant had no more fields to conquer as an amateur, and numbered among his victims Joe Zaharko, Vancouver's Jack Underhill, Walter Krmaer, the top American player of the time and Frank Devlin, six-time all-England champion. He turned professional in this year and toured the leading cities of Canada and the United States. Although repeatedly challenging Jack Purcell, he never had the opportunity of meeting the then World Champ in a title match and had to wait until Purcell retired last fall before inheriting the title.

Friendly Enemies

You wouldn't think that football players could remain friendly with the opposition after watching them commit mayhem against each other on the gridiron, but after a game the boys are usually quite palsy-walsy, and regard the legalized assault and battery that has just ensued as so much aqua under the pont. . . . In fact you often see some very sportsmanlike gestures during a contest. For example, in last Saturday's fray, not many spectators noticed the whole Western bench stand up and cheer spunky Murray Hayes as he plodded of fthe field towards the end of the last quarter.

THE HIKE
"Paramount was there"

Those Intercollegiate contests are generally hard-fought but clean. Nonetheless some of the players are none too gentle, especially around the centre of the line. . . . We heard one of the frontwallers remark after the game that the heel of his hand was sore from pounding the opposition lineman's head all afternoon. . . . Which reminds us that Snapback Alan Mann sports a piece of sponge under the back of his helmet for protection against just such frivolity.

Meet The Mann

In the dressing room after the game Johnny Metras came in to congratulate the Redmen on the great game they played. . . . Metras regards McGill as the best team Western have played this year. . . . The Mustang mentor plopped down beside Murray Hayes and started to converse with the shifty Red backfielder in low tones. . . . Which prompted Al Mann to pipe up with a "Before you say yes, Murray, make sure you get 3,000 bucks and a car." . . . The McGill field general came in for a bit of ribbing himself in regard to his brilliant pass interception in the first quarter. His teammates were convinced Mann would have been off for a touchdown if he hadn't paused to give a full face view to the cameras stationed atop the north side stands. . . . 'a bum ya," sneered rollicking Robert Bartlett. . . . "But Paramount and MGM were there," whined "The Hike", plaintively. "It was my big chance." . . . While we're on the subject of Mann (this is costing you a nickel a word, Al), "The Hike" has a fond regard for his old high school down in Huntingdon. . . . It seems that Mann ships the pigskin used in McGill games to his almy mammy to relieve the football shortage down there.

AUNTY JOHNNY

We wouldn't say that Johnny Metras was confident before Saturday's game, but the Western coach certainly isn't shy about explaining his plays . . . It seems that Pete Turcot, McGill football manager, met the Mustangs when their train pulled in Friday night. At the visitor's hotel he was talking to Metras about the previous week's tilt, and congratulated the visiting coach on the "swell end run" the Purple and White had been using.

"That was no end run" says Metras. "Here, let me show you". At which point the Detroit U. alumnus

Stan Cutts of the Toronto Carlton Club challenged Grant for the title last winter and a home-and-home series was arranged. Handicapped by a double hernia, Grant lost the title in two disappointing matches last February and March. However, he has undergone a successful operation during the past summer and is expected back in the competitive picture this winter. In addition to his duties as McGill's Badminton coach, Grant is associate editor of "Canadian Sports Monthly" and has been in recent years pro. at the Montreal Badminton and Squash Club.

Senior Rugby Squad Prepares for Queen's

Despite their recent defeats the McGill Senior Intercollegiate went through a light practice yesterday showing plenty of the old moxie. Preparing for their coming match against Queens this Saturday at Kingston, the local favourites were put through a light scrimmage by Coach Kerr.

Though there is no chance of winning the title, the Redmen can still finish in second place if they beat Queens and Varsity as it is expected that Western will emerge the victors from their tilt against Toronto. The Red and White team is especially looking forward to the Varsity game here on Nov. 9 as they were edged out 5-3 in Toronto on a muddy field but are confident they can take the Blues into camp when they play here, especially if the gridiron is dry.

There is a special train going to Kingston for Saturday's game, the price return being only $4.45. Lists are posted on the various notice boards for those who want to take advantage of this low rate.

Play Softball Games Today And Thursday

The softball games scheduled to take place last Friday between Med. 2 and Eng. 4 and Dent. 1 and Commerce 2 were called off. The Dents, it seemed, have a lot more drilling and filling than they figured on as they have dropped out of the league completely. The reason for the Engineers' inability to show up at 5:00 — "have nine potential ball players suddenly decided to prove the engineers' claim: CAN drink 40 beers?"

To clear things up, Lou Weingarten and committee have decided to hold games on Tuesday and Thursdays only. It is hoped that this move will help to avoid a

Basketball Practice Begins; Stars Back Kazas, Duford Out

McGill's 1946-47 basketball hopes received one of those famous shots-in-the-arm when nearly seventy candidates turned out for Coach Lou Davies' first practice in the Currie Gym.

With the team scheduled to have a long season with no less than 10 out of town games and many exhibition games against M.B.L. Seniors, interest is at a new high, with much competition for positions on both squads.

Returning to this year's Redmen are old friends George Davidon, Manny Shacter, Sam Roth, Ken Hoyle, Phil Wieselberg, and tall Mart Goodwin. In addition, the starry duo of Kazas and Duford, both of Dawson, are out for the senior team.

Many Exhibitions

The boys are off to an early start, and Coach Davies plans to give the team a thorough seasoning against fast American teams prior to meeting the powerful Mustangs and Varsity Blues. The annual series with the M.B.L. winners for the Dodds Cup will be played at the conclusion of the college schedule, and the Redmen will play several games against city opposition in preparation for these jousts. All in all, it looks like a big year with a variety of opposition lined up, and the boys will be in there pitching until the last buzzer.

Intermediate Teams In Important Contests Tomorrow Meet Rockland and Dawson Squads

Under the beaming arcs of Molson Staudium, the McGill QRFU squad will try to gain revenge against the Rockland twelve tomorrow night. The north end team handed our boys their lone setback of the season, edging out the Redmen, 2-1, despite the fact that the collegians outplayed their rivals.

TITLE THREAT

Captain Jim Darragh will lead his Red and White teamates into a "croo-cial" contest as a defeat would virtually eliminate the Roddick Gates footballers from the title hunt while a victory would put the Redmen into an excellent position to cop the bunting. If the collegians take this contest and the other two they have left to play it would assure them of the title no matter what the other teams do.

Expected to play a leading hand in defeating the Rockland team are Dick Joseph, plunging middle who has gone over for major scores twice this semester, Murray Greatrex, hefty punter, Darragh who is in charge of snapping the ball as well as keeping the team in tip top moral during the game, Lanier, another plunging middle, and Peers and Howgill, starry ends and nemesis of opposing ball catchers.

$ RATED ROCKLANDITES

Leading lights for the Rockland squad are Ken "the Bruise" Zakuta, 200-lb. linesman, running halfback Chalmers, Mickey McFall, starry linesman, Al Gabarino, who does the punting and does it well, and Alvin Alexander, lanky ex-Strathconian who has shown up very well in the past few games.

With the weatherman predicting clear weather for tomorrow, a large turnout of students is expected to cheer their hopefuls to victory. Rockland is sure to have a host of rooters out as they have a large following in Outremont who are expected to journey over the mountain for the game. This McGill squad is the only one of the three rugby squads who are in the thick of the penant race and it is on them that the local rugby followers rest their hopes of at least one football championship this year.

McGill's Title Water-Poloists Hold Practices

Aiming for three championships this year, McGill's water-poloists are entering their third week of strenuous practising under the expert eye of Coach Jimmy Rose. Last year's Senior Intercollegiate champions are entering the City Water Polo League as well as the Intercollegiate, and a junior entry has been made for the minor section in the Montreal competition.

FOUR-TEAM LOOP

Teams entered in the Montreal Water Polo League are the YMCA, YMHA, MAAA and McGill. All are rated about equal with the experts, with MAAA and McGill the slight favorites. Last year, in a series of exhibition games, the Winged Wheelers were the only team to defeat McGill twice, while all other teams came out on the short side of the score. However, YMHA is not to be counted out, as they have many expert players in their ranks, and the untried YMCA has many old McGill stalwarts.

This year's seniors have seven

Wednesday afternoon will see undisputed possession of second place decided in the Intermediate Collegiate race, when McGill meets Dawson on the latter's ground at 2.30 p.m.

At present the teams are tied, McGill having lost two games, one of them to our country cousins by 8-7, and Dawson having dropped a four pointer to Loyola. However, the visitors hope to cure their bad case of fumbleitis, and so reverse the previous decision. A victory will put either team within shooting range of Loyola, who to date have crushed Dawson by a 34-0 score and split the points with McGill in two shut-out contests, 17-0 and 7-0, the Redmen winning by the latter score.

PIPER LEADS DAWSON

Dawson will be led by Piper and "Moose" Smith, and coach Wally Markham plans to have Shorty Fairhead, Frank Creach, and Norm Burch, a former St. Lambert star with the Q.R.F.U. junior champs of last year, out for the Dawsonites.

McGill's team will be lead by such redoubtable types as Tank Townsend and Geoff Ince. In addition Bill Orban will be back from the senior team for this game and should prove useful. Also Bill Cave, Bob McBoyle, and Arnie Chaiken have shown well in recent games.

TEAMS CLOSELY MATCHED

All indications point to a truly torrid tilt (poetic, isn't it?) on Wednesday for the schedule waneth fast, with only two games left the Redmen, and three remaining to Dawson. All chance of overtaking the classy Loyola team will be denied the loser of this game, so the wiseacres are predicting action, and plenty of it in this inter-family brawl some 20 miles sooth of here.

The remaining games are as follows:

Saturday, November 2:
Bishops at McGill
Macdonald at Dawson.
Wednesday, November 6:
Bishops at Dawson.
Saturday, November 9:
McGill at Bishops
Dawson at Macdonald.

FENCING

Fencers, "en garde"! The women's section of the fencing club is scheduled to start its activities tomorrow. The time? 5.05 p.m., The place? The Currie Gym.

Beginners, you are especially invited to attend. This class is especially for you. However old timers must not feel neglected at this seeming lack of interest on their behalf, but turn out anyway and show the greenhorns how it is done. So all foil welders remember the time and place and be there won't you?

Boxing off to Better Start; Outlook Good

The McGill Boxing team has gotten off to a fine start, with an average attendance of 35 boys at four practices in the last two weeks. This is a high attendance figure and coach I. Phillips expressed the hope that all these boys would stay with the team.

John Henry, smart - punching welter weight with last year's team has been named manager of this year's squad. John will fill the bill and his appointment met with approval from both Coach Phillips and the boys.

MANY BEGINNERS

The majority of the turn-outs are beginners but are rapidly picking up the finer points of pugilism. Lack of equipment has been a great handicap to the beginers, as they can build up their effectiveness only on the heavy and light bags. However, they are given a mass demonstration of essentials by the coach, and then paired off to practice what they have been shown. So far there have been few bloody noses or black eyes which is a good sign in itself.

The more experienced group is larger in numbers and shows more promise than at this time last year. Bill Adams, a southpaw in the 175 pound class has shown the essentials of a good boxer and can give and take with the best at his weight. Coach Phillips predicts that astime progresses Bill will be mighty hard to keep off the team.

William has had his reWard by the great turnout at the "Meet the M.O.C." Pow-Wow held on Friday evening past. More formally entitled — the General meeting — the various aspects of the club's diverse activities were outlined briefly to the assembled multitude. Films shown during the early part of the evening, on skiing, skiing, and skiing, were of interest and most colorful (black and blue) and were a good indication of the ups and downs to be experienced by the M.O.C.er's this winter at Shawbridge and points north.

Fellow leaning over my shoulder has just mentioned that all the folk who were unable to obtain their memberships at the "Do" on Friday can obtain same from Mrs. Hendrie at the Athletics' Office in the James (never use nicknames — thanks Hubert). This applies to both guys and gals and be sure to fill out those "information forms".

COSMOCS ORCHESTRA PLAYS

Dancing to the strains of the COSMOC Orchestra, which reminds me of the horserace in which the horse with the best record was scratched at the last minute, the McGill Outing Club really had a great evening of fun, lots to eat, and a good time was had by all 300-plus who turned out.

LIBERAL CLUB DISCUSSES LABOUR

At a weekly meeting of the McGill Liberal Club held yesterday at 1.00 p.m. in the Union Music Room, Mr. John Nolan, a member of the Montreal Bar spoke on Labour Legislation in the Province of Quebec.

Mr. Nolan, a McGill graduate who had held the posts of Editor of the McGill Daily and President of the Students Society, described how the processes of Collective Bargaining, conciliation and arbitration operated under existing provincial law. He described how wages in the Printing Industry had been raised from fifteen dollars to forty dollars a week and hours lowered from forty-eight to forty in the last ten years.

Following Mr. Nolan's talk, there was an informal discussion period when students discussed Labour Legislation and asked Mr. Nolan questions.

pulls out a pencil and paper and diagrams the complete play, explaining the blocking, timing, etc.. As Turcot walked away, he was heard to mumble, "That so-and-so knows I don't know anything about football". P.S. That self-same off-tackle play was the Mustangs chief groundgainer Saturday . . . According to Metras, the play averages 17 to 18 yards each time they use it . . .

A point of interest . . . Western brought along their five injured players to view the proceedings... We wonder whether Johnny Hall and Tex Dawson, should they still be on the injured list this Saturday, will travel to Kingston at McGill's expense . . .

hold-overs from last season's squad. The high scoring trio of Jerry Cooper, Bob Mahon, and Irwin Fineberg are back on the front line, while Elliot Young, Geoff Ince, and Dan Paltiel will give lots of protection to Goalie Dave Townsend.

JUNIOR JAMBLINGS

The ten team junior league starts a week from Thursday with entries from three of the city pools, a junior representative from each of the senior teams, entries from Palestre National, Sir George Williams and an undisclosed entry. The favourites in this section are McGill and YMHA as they were the only teams to have organized water-polo last year.

Among the newcomers trying out for this year's team are Art Earle, outstanding forward for Dawson and Westmount High, Bob Tilden, an oldtimer from MAAA; Bill Parkinson from the same team, Pete Cameron on the defence, and Andy 'Senator' Huggessen will gave Townsend a tussle for the goal-tending honours.

Coach Jimmy Rose is no newcomer to the waterpolists around the city. He was the coach for Canadian Olympic swimming teams, and has lead several teams to the Dominion finals in water-polo. At present he is swimming and water-polo manager at the MAAA, and during the past summer has been attached to the Manoir Richelieu at Murray Bay.

No members of either team have definitely been chosen, and manager Arnie Brenhouse states all former players are welcome to attend next Thursday's practise at Schubert's Bath at 5.30.

Tennis—p. 3

Ebbels, playing a fine, backline game and displaying a strong forehand put up a great battle before bowing out.

In the 5th and last single match Colin "Rock" Ramsay whipped Saskatchewan's husky Milt Harradence 6-3, 6-3. Ramsay played smooth tennis and returned seemingly impossible shots from his fast opponent, who plaeyd a hard-hitting game, belting all his shots, cleanly and on the line to the back-tapes. But Ramsay had too much staying power and this proved to be the winning factor.

SPLIT DOUBLES

In the doubles match that tied it all up at 3-3, Ebbels-Hodges defeated Duford-Spencer 7-5, 6-2. The first set was evenly-matched with Duford's and Spencer's placements rivalling the fiery net play of Hodges. Hodges' experienced play and Ebbel's clutch shots gave them the second set over a team that provided everybody with plenty of thrills.

In the day's final and deciding match, Duff and Marien decisioned Leicester and Fuller 6-3, 6-8, 6-3. They jumped into a quick lead of 4-1 in the first set and divided the next four games. Leicester's fine serves and Fuller's place shots gave Saskatchewan the second over a duo that was plenty tough to beat. In the last set, Duff's amusing and heartbreaking trick net shots and Breen's brilliant headwork and strategic plays proved to be the thing that gave McGill the title, even after their opponents had staged another exciting rally.

Credit must be given to Messrs. Kent and Price who were responsible for the excellent condition of the courts and their help throughout the tourney.

recurrence of Friday's events. On Wednesday, Oct. 30, at 5:15 p.m., all team captains will meet in the gymnasium to find more suitable hours for the players. This will be a difficult task as the schedule is long and all games must be played before November 28.

The leading team of each of the six sections as well as the second best team of one of the sections, will take part in the semi-finals and finals which leads to the playoffs.

This week's schedule reads as follows:

Tuesday, 5.15—Eng. 2A vs. Grads; 6.00—Eng. 3 vs. Comm. 3.

Wednesday, 5.15—Meeting for all team captains.

Thursday—No games owing to concert to be held in gym.

he had been in London during the squatter movement there. He told us of the movement into the Bedford Flats there. "One main difference between the squatters here and the squatters there," he said, "is that there weren't so many veterans." He said that the London police had blockaded the flats and that supporters from outside were throwing food to them. This was definitely quieter, he said.

As we came down the stairs the crowd was pressing close around the doorway. Some of the people clustered on the sidewalk were doubtless the regular patrons of the establishment waiting for their evening's entertainment.

DAWSON VS. McGILL SOCCER GAME

The first goal for McGill was scored shortly after the start of the game, on a soaring kick by Dale, which caught the top left-hand corner of the goal.

In the dying minutes of the game, after a McGill pressure drive, in which the whole McGill team figured, Walcott caught a beautiful pass for the equalizing goal of the game.

POWELL RETURNS

In the 165 pound division Graham Powell after an absence of two years has returned to the McGill ring wars. He has not yet reached his 1944 form but shows more style with each workout.

Syd Dacon is back at the 155 pound level, and his experience and knowledge of boxing are welcomed. John Heney, at 145 pounds is already in shape and showing good foot-work and jabbing at each session. Others expected back are Eric Robinson and John Piper, two stalwarts at present out with the football squad. Not much has developed in the lighter weights as yet, but the season is still young, and a little early for predictions.

Boxing sessions are on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5.15 to 6.30, and only a pair of shorts, a sweatshirt, and running shoes are needed. Anyone wishing to turn out should be at the B. W. & F. room at the appointed time.

Union consists this year of Heddie Brown, president; Dorothy Petersen, vice-president; Mary Mitham, secretary, and Dorothy Stalker, treasurer, and a representative of the M.W.S.A.A.

Among the committees operating under the Women's Union are the Social Service with an extensive voluntary service program under the chairmanship of Anne Verriest; and a Freshman Reception committee under the chairmanship of Joy MacKay.

Besides its monthly executive meetings, the Women's Union also sponsors the annual Christmas Dance at R.V.C., the park slide in conjunction with the M.W.S.A.A., and a veterans' tea to be held shortly.

This year the Women's Union has remodelled the locker rooms opposite the new cafeteria into a large comfortable lounge (which is in the process of being furnished), with two adjacent offices, one for the Women's Union and one for the M.W.S.A.A.

All clubs under the control of the Union are reminded that financial reports for the year (or budgets) must be in by Nov. 1 if a grant is desired.

Third, Canadian unionism is largely a new development, in which management and labour have not yet learned to co-operate to the limit of their ability.

The speaker strongly censured the tendency of unions to use their right to strike to wield influence in political affairs. While stressing the importance of keeping inviolate the right to strike for better working conditions, Professor Keirsted called undemocratic any attempt by an organized group to serve its group interests by other than parliamentary procedure; and cited Britain's labour party as an example of the influence organized labour can have on government through constitutional methods. He suggested this as being the best answer to Canadian labour's problem of making its voice heard when legislation concerning it is being debated.

Professor Keirsted is the Bronfman Professor of Economics at McGill, and has had experience as a government conciliator in labour disputes.

UNIVERSITY OF ALBERTA: New to this university is their Department of Physical Education, which was instituted this year, as one of the first of its kind in western Canada.

and since it was carefully sheltered from subsequent experiences of this nature, the incident left no indelible impression upon it.

The second poem — "Baa Baa Black Sheep" — opens on a new phase: the mutton is mature, and exhibits the result of Mary's unselfish devotion. We see him self-confident and secure in his ability to deal with the commercial gentleman, while at the same time he replies to questions with "Yes, sir", thus demonstrating that he is a model of gentlemanly conduct and faultles manners.

It may be assumed, we think, that this second poem is the product of a later period in the poetess' development. She demonstrates a new maturity, the result of an evolution from the family consciousness, which seeks to deal with complex ethnic and economic problems. The Black Sheep, in determining to distribute the products of his labor equally — i.e., "one for my master, one for my dame" etc. — gives us a striking indication of the progressive spirit, not only of himself but of the lyricist; and this is the more remarkable when one considers that she lived at a time when not only Shaw and Ibsen, but even Marx and Engels, were entirely unknown.

To conclude, then, the two poems reveal Mother Goose's deep understanding of the problems of developmental behavior. We feel certain that students approaching the Goose works with this in mind will obtain lasting satisfaction, and perhaps will gain a new insight into complex problems not heretofore apparent to them. Should this prove true, they will not have searched in vain.

As for ourselves, we left the poems with a new feeling of certainty, a new confidence in the regulated progress of natural evolution, and a secure knowledge that the well-adjusted mutton must inevitably reach the currant-jelly-and-brown-gravy stage, black markets notwithstanding.
